Bank robbery suspect apprehended at airport

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

A sharp-eyed Romulus detective helped city uniform officers and Detroit Metro Airport Police nab a burly 48-year-old Indiana man Monday afternoon, shortly after he robbed a local bank and took a van from a frightened bank customer, police said Tuesday.

Detective Sgt. Gordon Malaniak reported he was driving in the area of Middlebelt and Goddard Roads, when he spotted the alleged bank robber in the stolen van about 2 p.m.

Malaniak followed the van into the airport area, while radioing the police dispatcher for additional help.

Airport police slowed the accused bandit's travel route near Northwest Airlines terminal, until a full team of police officers could be assembled.

The Indiana man was arrested without incident at the airport, Malaniak said, and taken to Romulus Police Headquarters where he was interrogated by local detectives and agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. He was found to be carrying no weapon.

Police report that $800 in small bills were recovered from the suspect's pockets and another $580 was found in the stolen van.

Malaniak said the large casually dressed suspect walked into the First of America Bank at 9950 Wayne Road (near Romulus High School) about 1:30 p.m. Monday.

He approached a female bank teller and implied he had a weapon in his pocket and demanded a large supply of money in small bills ($10 and $20s).

After gaining the stolen loot, police report, the man walked out of the bank and demanded the keys of a van from a woman, who was just about to enter the bank branch office.

"The woman at first refused," Malaniak said, "but then surrendered the keys when he informed her he had just robbed the bank. He once again inferred he had a weapon."

Bank officers tripped the holdup alarm and Romulus police responded within minutes and the suspect and van's descriptions were broadcast locally.

A short time later Malaniak spotted the vehicle and the arrest was made.

FBI agents took the suspect to U.S. District Court for arraignment on Tuesday.

Explosion

Westland fire officials are investigating the explosion of a Westland home, located on the 5700 block of N. Berry Street. No one was injured during the blast which occurred at approximately 7:17 p.m. Sunday, but a 78-year-old woman was ejected into her backyard and the home was severely damaged. MCN photo by Ken Garner

Taxpayers threaten lawsuit

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Letters to three Romulus councilmen were mailed Tuesday by pro-Environmental Disposal Services well activist Dolores Witzgall and three other "taxpayers" threatening legal action against the city officials and their attorneys "to enjoin (stop) any further representation and payment for zoning litigation expenses and require them to be repaid to the city."

The letters were mailed to Councilmen Michael Prybyla, William Wadsworth and Randolph Gear, Witzgall said.

In the letter, the writers state, "During the past year, you, as members of the Romulus City Council have, at the mayor's (Beverly McAnally) recommendation, incurred expenses, approved warrants and appropriated funds to pay for zoning litigation against EDS—litigation which, when viewed in light of public statements by city officials seems more interested in blocking the EDS project than enforce-ing the city's zoning statutes."

The letter continues "as Romulus property owners and taxpayers, we wish to express our frustrations over how, we believe, you as members of the City Council, acting in concert with the mayor, have deceived and continued to deceive the public regarding the expenses being incurred in connection with this litigation."

The letter writers state that Prybyla, Wadsworth and Gear on two occasions in the spring of 1994 voted to approve payment of warrants which included legal expenses in excess of what had been appropriated through properly adopted budget amendments.

Witzgall and her fellow writers state "over a period of nearly a month, the City Council approved litigation expenses totaling $161,709 -- more than $50,000 more than had been appropriated up to that point through your votes."

The writers also state the city voted to appropriate nothing for litigation involving the deep well for fiscal year 1994-95.

"The mayor must think we are fools," they charge and ask the trio of councilmen to "stop playing games with us the taxpayers of Romulus."

They also decry the lack of official discussion on the future fees for litigation asking, "When did it become legal for a city not to tell what it's doing with (taxpayers') money?"

The trio then warned, "If the excess expense reimbursement is not made promptly and the secret accumulation of expenses does not cease immediately, we taxpayers shall begin an action against you and your attorneys to enjoin any further representation and payment for zoning litigation expenses and require them to be repaid to the city, because these expenses and the future expenses may necessitate further increases in our Romulus property taxes."

The trio concluded, "We have rights spelled out in the city charter, Uniform Budget Act and Open Meetings Act. We are fully prepared to enforce these rights in a court of law. Stop this secrecy and return our money."

Other lawsuits possible Deepwell zoning hearings to begin

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

With the Zoning Board of Appeals hearings slated next week on the controversial Environmental Disposal Services (EDS) deep well project, a financial impact study has been released by a University of Michigan-Dearborn professor that includes foreboding news about possible massive new lawsuits against the city.

Dr. Seth I. Hirshorn, associate professor of public administration, sent a 17-page study Monday to the office of the Michigan Community Newspapers that hints that EDS and a subsidiary (Roman LLC) could file massive lawsuits against the city if its deep well project is turned down in coming weeks.

The study also included over nine pages of bibliography listings from city documents and numerous newspaper stories including many from the ROMULUS ROMAN.

The scheduled ZBA hearings are to begin at 7 p.m. Oct. 26 and 27.

In Part II of his massive report, Hirshorn states, "There are four potential suits the city and its officials are now facing" with EDS and there is "no insurance for the city to cover the cost of defending itself against or recoveries from the taxpayer action" that also might be taken.

In exhibit seven of his report, Hirshorn lists the suits as two civil rights suits against the city as well as a suit seeking delay in operation losses and a possible city taxpayers suit charging the city with misappropriation of city funds.

Hirshorn states in his "description of actual and possible legal actions resulting in a failure of deep well litigation and four additional lawsuits" that a civil rights lawsuit "is to be commenced by Roman LLC, a subsidiary of EDS, in October 1994 against the city's mayor (Beverly McAnally) and building department head (David Paul)" seeking $100 million in punitive damages and $4 million in actual damages for civil rights violations in connection with inducements to EDS and its investors to develop a disposal well business in the city.

Hirshorn states "the suit will continue seeking the return of the investors $3.8 million in well investments, whether or not the city prevails in the zoning litigation."

A check with Vince Schager, EDS operations manager, revealed that the suit is in a preparation stage and has not yet been filed.

Newspapers win awards, promote 2 editors

The Michigan Community Newspapers (MCN), formerly the Associated Newspapers, recently took two second-place awards in the 1994 Michigan Press Association Better Newspaper Contest and "Newspaper of the Year" Awards.

The members of the Tennessee Press Association (TPA) reviewed 2,469 entries submitted by 142 newspapers in the state. The Westland Eagle captured second place for overall excellence which included style, content and appearance.

In fact, TPA officials stated that the Westland Eagle was a "toss-up for first and second place."

The Michigan Community Newspapers also took second place for the Suburban Living section of the paper for overall style and content. TPA officials said the "arty" look make the section unique and the local stories were interesting.

Official plaques will be presented to the Michigan Community Newspapers at the 127th Annual Michigan Press Association Winter Convention in Grand Rapids Jan. 27, 1995.

Mike Wilcox, MCN publisher and president, promoted two editorial department employees after taking over the operation of the six community newspapers last month.

Joan Dyer-Zinner, former news editor, was named managing editor of the publications.

Dyer was hired in 1986 to write historical articles for the 100th anniversary of the Belleville Enterprise. Following the publication of the anniversary edition, she became a staff writer for Canton Township and Westland and later the city editor for The Enterprise. She has served as news editor for more than a year.

Dyer is a member of the Belleville Area Chamber of Commerce and the Tri-Community Substance Abuse Task Force.

Former deputy news editor Margo Dewey has been named news editor. Dewey was hired in 1990 as a reporter for the Wayne Eagle and Romulus Roman. She later became the feature editor overseeing Suburban Living and special sections. In 1993 Dewey became the deputy news editor assisting in the overall production of the six bi-weekly newspapers.

Candidate takes lone campaign walk

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

One of the most difficult tasks that Helen Halyard confronts in her campaign as a Workers League candidate for the 13th Congressional District is recognition for herself and her party.

Her two opponents, Republican John Schall and Democrat Lynn Rivers, have been interviewed by major newspaper and television journalists, but Halyard's candidacy has been virtually ignored, she said.

"I'd like to have the same opportunity to express my views as the other candidates have, and then allow the voters to make their choice," Halyard said. "However, it's not unusual for a Workers' candidate to be ignored.

"We (the Workers League) obtained ballot status," Halyard said. Ironically, she said, the majority of workers to whom she addresses her campaign have opted to support the Democratic Party, a party that she believes has failed to adequately represent workers.

Halyard said the central issue in her campaign is that every worker have a secure and decent paying job. She noted that recent plant closings and downsizing of companies have created financial hardships and anxiety among workers.

The Workers' candidate supports a universal health care plan, including the right to choose a physician plus full hospitalization, dental and eye care services. "Health care is a basic need. The controversy over health care reform now indicates the inability of the system to make reforms," the candidate said.

Halyard believes the full cost of the health care should be provided by the government.

"Taxation on the lower and working classes should be lowered, and the taxes on the rich should be increased," Halyard said, suggesting that taxes should be at a 100 percent level on earnings more than $150,000.

Halyard, originally from New York City, has been a Michigan resident for 11 years. She has been affiliated with the Workers Party all of her adult life, participating in campaigns and working on social issues.

We must feel safe in our homes and on our streets.

We have a right to feel safe. We have a right to feel secure. We should not be threatened in our own community by career criminals and school drop outs victimizing us. We have thieves, killers and sex offenders who are out on the street after only minimal prison time because of our present state system. These convicts are on the street, threatening our well being and our property because of our present system of incarceration.

Here's what we have to do.

1. CREATE A MANDATORY SENTENCING PROGRAM

There can be no early release offered for repeat offenders and for heinous crimes. We need to get tough with criminals and ensure that they pay dearly for their crimes against us and our neighbors. If they commit a crime, they must know, without a doubt, that they will serve a prison sentence for it. There can no longer be early release and time off for men and women who are repeat offenders and career criminals.

2. DEVELOP PRIVATE PAY PRISONS

If men and women who are convicted criminals are housed and cared for at the expense of taxpayers, where is the punishment. Presently, some prisoners are provided dance lessons, legal counseling, vocational training and unlimited leisure at our expense. I believe that crime deserves punishment.

We need to allow privatization of some prison facilities. Let's allow private developers to build prisons and house prisoners and have the criminals pay for it. If sent to prison, criminals should be charged for their time there. They should pay for their care and their rehabilitation through fines, an assessment against any property they may own, bank accounts or any other funds they might have. If they have no assets, the state should be allowed a lien against any future property or assets so they are forced to pay for their jail time once released into society.

These facilities would require regulation and inspection, but might provide the answer to overcrowding in our jails—and could prove a serious deterrent to crime.

3. PUT OUR PRISONERS TO WORK

There are a number of jobs in this state which could be done by prisoners. Our roadways could be cleaned up—our waterways could be cleaned and cleared of debris and our environment improved by use of prison labor. Prisoners could be used as laborers in the building of new prisons, cutting our costs immensely.

Prisoners should be forced to pay their own way—not stay in our correctional facilities at our expense. Today, victims lose twice, first as the targets of criminals and then as the providers of incarceration for them.

Marginal criminals should be used in our work force to make our state a better place and free our state employees to do the jobs for which they are trained. While I do not suggest that violent or repeat offenders be used in this manner, it is crucial that we better use the labor force available to us in the state.

4. VIOLENT OFFENDERS PROGRAM

While I support the use of marginal criminals in the state work force, I want violent criminals kept in maximum security facilities without the opportunity to escape or be released early. I do not want my family, or yours, threatened by these people who clearly have no regard for others. Violent criminals should be incarcerated under the strictest of conditions and not paroled or released early.

We have to change our attitude. Some people cannot be rehabilitated. We have to change our attitude and keep these predators from our homes and our families. We have to be willing to pay to keep these people away from society—and we can pay for this by using lesser offenders to do state-paid jobs, allowing those funds to be channeled into our prisons.

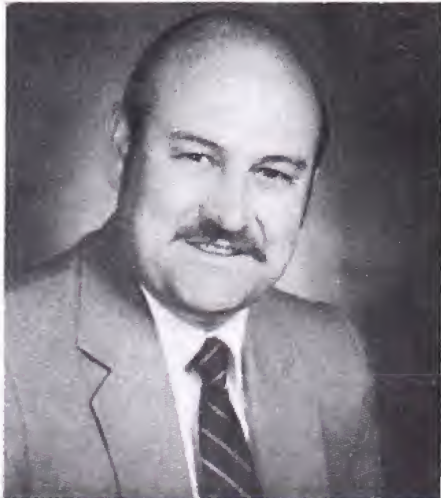

We need to make some difficult choices to solve a difficult problem.

5. ESTABLISH JUVENILE BOOT CAMPS

Youngsters arrested for the first time on non-violent charges and convicted should be sent to boot-camp type facilities where they can experience the discipline and training missing in their lives. First we need to offer our children a basic education as I've discussed—and if that fails them, then we need to impose a strict climate of rules and regimen for them instilling a respect for our community and our way of life.

When you have to worry about your family leaving home because you're not safe, there's something wrong. Let's get these juvenile offenders off the streets and correct their behavior now.

Let's look at some of our closed military installations for use as juvenile training centers. We need to realign our priorities and put our prisoners to work, not make victims pay twice.

IT'S TIME TO MAKE SOME TOUGH CHOICES.

Pumpkin painting

slated Oct. 26

A pre-Halloween pumpkin painting party is planned for Oct. 26 at the Romulus Recreation Center.

The party is sponsored by the recreation department and will include light refreshments, games, story time, prizes as well as pumpkin painting.

The party will begin at 6 and continue through 7:30 p.m. The cost is $2 and participants must supply their own pre-washed pumpkin. There will be no costumes.

A pre-registration deadline is slated for Oct. 26 at the recreation department, 36515 Bibbons St. (at Shook).

Romulus marine

evacuation

Marine Lance Cpl. James G. Hopkins, son of Janice S. Winkler of Romulus, recently completed a six-month deployment in the Western Pacific and Indian Oceans with the Second Battalion, Fifth Marines.

Hopkins was one of 2,200 Marines and 2,000 Sailors in the four-ship USS Peleliu Amphibious Ready Group that served off the coast of Somalia and helped in the evacuation of U.S. citizens from Rwanda and Burundi.

American citizens and other foreign nationals were evacuated to Nairobi, Kenya.

The 1989 graduate of John Glenn High School of Westland joined the U.S. Marine Corps in October 1990.

Blood drive set

at local church

Forty five blood donors are being sought for the blood drive on Nov. 14 at the Community United Methodist Church.

The blood collection will be conducted from noon to 8 p.m. that day at the church located at Olive and Bibbins Street.

Maureen Savage, coordinator of the church outreach commission, said 36 pints of blood were collected last year.

An American Red Cross spokesman reported that one pint of blood can save or sustain more than one life.

Donors must be 17 years of age or older. An hour is all it takes to give blood with the donation time lasting less than 10 minutes, a spokesman said.

Anti-pornography

week

begins Oct. 29

Area churches will be marking National Pornography Awareness Week beginning Oct. 29 in an effort to raise knowledge that pornography is not a victimless crime, Bill Johnson, head of the American Family Association of Michigan, said Monday.

The AFA is one of the leading statewide groups that focuses attention on the plight of pornography and its impact on family members, Johnson said. The AFA also provides free church bulletin inserts on pornography issues, he said.

Home firearms

course set

A safety course for local gun owners will be offered by the Wayne County Sportsman's Club on Nov. 7 and 8 beginning at 7 p.m.

Registration will begin at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 7 at the Sportsman's Club at 18102 S. Inkster Road in Romulus (between Pennsylvania and Sibley).

There will be a $10 per family fee for the course that will include firearms types, firearms use and storage, firearms safety, cleaning the firearm and some of the laws governing use and purchase/sale of firearms.

Each student will be able to shoot air guns at the club indoor range.

National Rifle Association Training Counselor Bill Miller can provide readers with additional information by calling 313-532-0285.

Romulus Homecoming firsts recorded

By AL POST
MCN Staff Writer

Tyrone Jones and Casandra Jackson, two prime Romulus High School athletes, were crowned 1994 Homecoming King and Queen Friday night.

Speaking almost in unison Monday morning during a break in classes, the royal pair said they felt "great" being selected by their peers at school and felt it was a "great honor to wear the crown."

Jones is an outside line backer for the varsity Romulus football squad, who lost a tough 3-0 match up against the Milan High School grid squad. The Eagles played the Big Red team to a scoreless tie until the final seconds, when Milan scored on a 25-yard field goal.

Jones starred on the Homecoming Game's defensive team, making 14 tackles. He also plays on the school's basketball and track teams. He plans to enter college next fall and study engineering.

Jackson is active with the Romulus High's basketball and volleyball teams.

Members of the queen's court included Kristi Hardrick, Jaime Luczak, Jamie McGraw and Shannon Warren.

Members of the king's court included Gary Harris, John Pitel, Josh Remelius and Mario Thomason.

The senior class was named winner of the Homecoming Parade float contest and the annual spirit jug competition.

The 1994 Homecoming Parade Float judges included: Dr. Terrel LeCesne, assistant superintendent; Romulus police officer Rosemary Cooper, Kate Conway of the Teen Health Center, Al Post of the Romulus Roman newspaper, and three alumni, Sara Frollich, Gloria Chandler and Jerry Marshall.

Other Homecoming Court members included: Nicole Laskaska, Ninth Grade Princess; Reginald Williams, Ninth Grade Prince; Kionta Turrentine, 10th Grade Princess; Shenika Hankerson, 11th Grade Princess; and Ryan Daw, 11th Grade Prince.

Judy Rakatz, the 1962 Romulus High School Homecoming

Queen, served as the grand marshal of the 1994 Homecoming Parade on Friday afternoon, the first such official in the history of the school.

Another new activity conducted prior to the parade was the judging of two elementary school parade float entries. The Wick Elementary School float topped the Barth Elementary School entry in that competition.

It is hoped in future years that all Romulus elementary schools and the middle school students will compete for that $100 Homecoming float prize.

Marge Bergman, school alumni director, revealed also for the first time that 30 alumni members of the Romulus High Marching Band appeared at half time of Friday game and played several tunes prior to the selections by the current band.

Bergman said 15 more Romulus High graduates enrolled in the school's alumni association. The group founded in 1992 already has a membership of over 400 graduates.

Parents protest closing of schools in Wayne-Westland

Hundreds of Wayne-Westland elementary students may be going to different schools next year if an administration proposal is approved by the Board of Education to close four elementary schools.

A 15-member steering committee made up administrators, community members and a consulting firm, selected Titus, Stottlemeyer, Monroe and Fischer Elementary Schools for possible closure, according to Superintendent of Schools Dr. Larry Thomas.

Thomas added that if Fischer is closed, most of those children would be attending Hicks Elementary.

The proposal was revealed when more than 200 angry parents, who attended the board meeting last week at John Glenn High School, asked board members to reveal the names of the schools being considered. The 4-1/2-hour meeting became so heated that at one point two Westland police officers approached the stage where board members were conducting the meeting.

The closures were proposed as a result of the redistricting and middle school concepts as well as the financial state of the district, which is currently $1.2 million in deficit.

The middle school concept would involve moving some 1,200 six graders to the middle schools and 1,200 ninth graders to the high schools, making the elementary school grades kindergarten.

Video bandit is still at large

A sketch of a suspect wanted for the armed robbery of the Empire Video Store on Oct. 2 has been released by the Romulus Police Department.

The sketch of the hooded gunman was created following interviews of the woman attendant and others, police said.

The bandit reportedly entered the Eureka Road store about 4 p.m. that day and at first appeared to be looking for a movie to rent, the victim said.

But then he walked over to the attendant, flashed a silver-colored pistol and demanded "give me all the bills in the register and I won't hurt you."

The Dearborn professor also states that a similar suit also could be filed against the city itself for the same amount of damages.

Another possible suit listed is a "taking suit" if the zoning decision goes against EDS seeking losses of $2.6 million a year for each year of delay and states "this suit will continue whether or not EDS prevails in the zoning litigation."

The last possible suit listed could be "commenced by one or more Romulus taxpayers against the city council and the mayor" (see adjoining story).

Hirshorn lists in his "key factors" that the lawsuits could last up to three years with heavy financial cost to the city.

He also states the first civil rights suit would most likely be covered under the municipi-pal liability insurance by the city, leaving the city exposed for the first $75,000 and legal costs.

Hirshorn wrote "limited insurance" could be obtained for protection of the second civil rights suit.

Announcement of the possible lawsuits was part of the strategy by EDS prior to next week's hearing. Meanwhile members of the well opposition group, Romulus Environmentalists Caring About People (RECAP), erected a huge sign at the busy intersection of Wayne and Goddard Roads urging area residents to attend the ZBA hearings next Wednesday and Thursday.

The sessions will be conducted beginning at 7 p.m. in 34th District Court Judge Felix Rogalle's courtroom.

Additional hearings will be set up if needed.

Board selects superintendent search firm

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

The Michigan Association of School Boards (MASB) has been selected to perform the Wayne-Westland Superintendent of Schools selection process.

The board is searching for a candidate to replace current Superintendent Dr. Larry Thomas, who announced his resignation, effective June 30, 1995. However, Thomas could leave earlier because he is one of three finalists for the superintendent's position in Brighton.

MASB was the lowest priced consultant of the three considered by the board. With a general fee of $6,000 for the search and $750 for expenses, MASB was less than half the price of its competitors. Those firms were TD and Associates of Alto and McClennan and Associates of Detroit, priced at $17,500 plus $2,500 in expenditures and $12,500 plus $2,000 for expenses respectively.

MASB representative Karla Funk said the MASB would also have meetings with staff and citizens, but will focus on the leadership of the district bargaining units. MASB is expecting 44 candidates for the position.

Funk commented that the same services would have cost the district $10,000 a few years ago, but since MASB has changed their pricing to meet the student count of each individual district, the cost has gone down.

The amount of time required for the search is four to six months for MASB, according to Funk, with some searches taking even less time.

The measure was approved unanimously with Board Vice President Richard LeBlanc absent. However, some board members showed concern about the application screening process.

"I'd like some criteria. I don't feel qualified to review applications that typically a professional would do," Trustee Laurel Raisanen said.

If the board decides not to do the paper screening, Thomas commented after the meeting, the search would cost more.

Babysitter saves 7 children in house fire, police speculate plastic pumpkin ignited

By JENNIFER PLACINTO
MCN Staff Writer

A Halloween plastic pumpkin was the cause of an accidental fire which could have been tragic had it not been for a quick-acting babysitter and a smoke alarm which helped save seven young Westland children, according to Westland Fire Marshall Patrick Harder.

The fire started around 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the home, located on the 1600 block of Lillian Street in Westland.

The blaze ignited when the sitter, Pam Keatts of Westland, was caring for three of her children and her sister's four children at her sister's home. According to Harder, the woman took a plastic pumpkin from the children and tried to keep it away from them by setting it atop a lamp, Harder said.

"My four-year-old set the styrofoam pumpkin up there," mother of the four children Sandy Duke said, adding that she attempted to toss the burning jack-o lantern out the door and received second-degree burns on her arms and hands, Harder said. While Keatts was taking the lamp outside, parts of the plastic also fell onto the living room couch and started it ablaze, Harder added.

The woman safely escorted all seven children, under the age of 10, out of the home, Duke said, adding that Keatts was too broken up to talk about the fire.

The children escaped unharmed, but the family dog died in the fire which caused some $45,000 in damage to the home, Harder said.

Conviction remains in murder of Wayne business owner

By MARGO DEWEY
MCN News Editor

A Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court jury has found Michael John Moran guilty of first-degree murder in the death of Wayne businessman John Edward Valchine; former owner of Johnny's Market, on Howe Road.

Moran was originally convicted of the murder charge in 1988, however, he asked for an appeal and was recently granted one by the Michigan Court of Appeals.

Valchine was fatally wounded during an armed robbery at his party store Nov. 14, 1987 by a single gunshot wound to the chest.

Last week the vivid details of the murder were relived again before a jury. After hearing all the evidence from the same prosecuting and defense attorneys which handled the initial case, however, the jury once again found Moran guilty of first-degree murder and felony firearm.

Wayne Police Chief John Colligan said he was pleased with the outcome.

"The facts of the case have never changed," Colligan said. "This is a mandatory life sentence. The sad aspect is that the family of the victim had to go through this all over again."

Moran was serving his prison sentence in the Muskegon penitentiary. It is not known at this time which prison he will serve out the life sentence.

Less than $100 was taken from the party store Nov. 14, 1987 as a result of the armed robbery. Many residents were devastated by the death of Valchine who was very well known in the community.

Native Americans celebrate area pow-wow

By LAURIE HUMPHREY
MCN Staff Writer

In the spirit of the upcoming holiday season, the Native American Indian Association and Michigan Indigenous People are celebrating their 12th annual traditional pow-wow this weekend in Dearborn.

According to Anne Miller, a member of the Detroit Indian Center and a Romulus resident, "it's a real family event" including traditional dances, Native American foods and authentic crafts.

"People have the opportunity to see and experience things they have never seen before," she said. "Native people come from all over the country to participate."

The local pow-wow, scheduled to take place on the campus of the University of Michigan-Dearborn (U of M-D), is one of three traditional events that occur in the metro-Detroit area. It takes the whole year to plan and is historically well-attended, she said.

The arena opens at noon on both Saturday and Sunday. Admission for adults is $7, while seniors, students and children can enter for $4. Children 5 and younger can enter free.

"It's important to include the public in our activities so they can learn what we're about," said Miller. "It's a whole different culture that people aren't aware of."

State parks funding rates voter approval

The approval of Proposal P, which would establish an endowment fund for state parks and increase the maximum allowable amount of funds in the Michigan Natural Resources Trust Fund (MNRTF), could revitalize the state park system by providing funds for much-needed improvements.

Those who visit the state parks can attest to the need to upgrade park facilities and programs. An increasing number of residents - many from western Wayne County - use the state parks for fishing, hiking, picnicking and camping.

These state-owned parks are prime natural resources for all Michigan residents, and it is necessary for voters to see that funds are allocated for the improvement and maintenance of the parks for years to come.

Revenues from the MNRTF, which was established in 1976, are from oil, gas and mineral production on state lands, and were initially earmarked to purchase prime recreational land for public use.

The endowment fund would provide a long-term, stable source of funding for state parks, receive $10 million annually from the trust fund and improve maintenance, security and cleanliness in the state parks plus expand visitor services.

In addition, the passage of Proposal P would guarantee that further diversions of funds would be halted, such as the funds that have been diverted in the past for economic development programs.

We join the Michigan United Conservation Clubs, Michigan Environmental Council, Michigan Municipal League and many other entities in supporting the approval of Proposal P in the Nov. 8 general election as a benefit to all citizens of Michigan.

Police thanked for assistance

To the editor:
On Sunday afternoon, October 2nd, approximately 280 people from several area churches and other local organizations in Belleville and Romulus participated in the 12th annual Belleville-Romulus Cropwalk. It is a 10-kilometer walk beginning in Romulus and continuing into Van Buren Township. I am sending this letter of thanks and praise of the Romulus and Van Buren police departments who worked with the walk to provide security, a safe route, and manage traffic control over the six-mile walk.

Both departments sent representatives to work with the walk coordinators at an August meeting and promised full cooperation. Throughout September as the route had to be changed because of construction on Belleville Road, both Romulus and Van Buren Police Departments worked to assist us in planning an alternate safe (and attractive) route.

On the afternoon of the walk, both departments made several trips up and down the route, occasionally slowing traffic at crossing points, watching out for us at dangerous road crossings, and generally making the walkers feel safe.

We are deeply grateful to these two fine departments, and look forward to next year's walk, thanks to their work and professionalism.

Proposal P supported

To the editor:
It is only fitting that during the year of the 75th birthday of the Michigan State Park System, a program to protect the longevity of these parks be approved by the voters of Michigan.

Passage of Proposal P would provide additional monies for the Natural Resources Trust Fund by raising the cap on the fund from the present $200 million to $400 million, greatly expanding the life of the fund and preventing further diversions from the fund such as the $20 million that has been siphoned off each year for the past 10 years for economic development.

Proposal P would also provide a long-term stable source of funding for state parks, which would improve maintenance, security and cleanliness while expanding visitor services at the park.

Proposal P would not cost the taxpayers any new monies. The trust fund revenues come from oil, gas and mineral production on state land. It was established in 1976 to purchase prime recreational and environmentally sensitive lands for the public.

We join many other organizations in the state including the Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC), in lending our support to Proposal P. Let's restore our state parks to the level they once enjoyed and provide our future generations with an opportunity to experience on of the state of Michigan's greatest assets - the Michigan State Park System.

School closing prompts memories

To the editor:
I am a building that was built in 1956. Through the years I have opened my doors for thousands of children. My floors may be worn from all the tiny feet that have walked through my doors, but I keep the children warm in the cold winters and cool through my many windows in the hot summers, and dry in the spring rains. When I was designed times were different. I'm not sure why I was built the way I am, but after all these years none of my children have seemed to mind.

I was always taken care of from the people that really cared about me, but one day that all changed. I understood that another school district took over my care. They promised me that they were going to improve me in many ways. I like to enclose my hallways make my rooms quieter with carpeting and generally just keep me up to date with all the other schools in my area. I think they were never kept.

The children never seemed to care much about how I looked because they always considered that I would always be there for them. They still came to school with a smile on their faces and a willingness to learn. The song of their voices is heard throughout my halls and rooms. The children still come.

Now these people say that I need too much work done to keep me open. They now say they don't have the money to enclose my wings or have me carpeted. They say that I'm not good enough. Is it my fault that I have not been taken care of since they took me over? Is it just money that they need, now that there isn't any left for me? Why me? Why was I the forgotten one? What did I ever do wrong to deserve this? Maybe it's because I am on the wrong side of town. Maybe it's because I'm shared with another city called Inkster. But those children's parents pay the same school taxes that Westland parents do. They said that they would take care of me when they took over the old Cherry Hill District. What happened?

It's too bad that they forgot all the good things that have happened inside my doors. We were featured on a television station. Emery King was doing a story about inter-racial schools. The children shined that day because we showed everyone that going to school with all children was the best way to learn. We showed everyone that we can live, work, learn and play with all races. I am very different from other schools in this district because of the ethnic background of my children. I have the only banking program in the district. Comerica is our sponsor. Once or twice a month children bring in their hard-earned

This year, voters in Western Wayne have a unique opportunity. With the retirement of long-time Congressman William Ford and open State Senate and State Representative seats, we will be sending new faces to Washington, D.C., Lansing and to many of our local offices. Therefore, if there ever were a time to become educated about politics, now is the time.

Michigan Community Newspapers, along with the 13th Congressional District Republican Club, is sponsoring a Candidate's Debate this Thursday, Oct. 20, at 7:30 p.m. at the Wayne Community Center. Debates are expected to take place between State Senate, State Representative and County Commissioner candidates.

Although this forum is sponsored by a partisan group (Republicans), and we as a newspaper would traditionally avoid co-sponsorship with a political entity, we felt if Messrs. Griffin, Kelly and Warfield (the Democratic candidates) had agreed to show up, we would too.

Here's hoping many of you (the voters who will make the final decision) will also show up. We promise this to be an unbiased forum, in which all candidates will have the chance to put their best foot forward. Remember 7:30 p.m., Wayne Community Center! Be there!

Mike's musings

Belleville High School has a helluva football team this year. The big game was this past Saturday when 4-1 Wayne Memorial challenged Number Two rated Double A team in the state, Belleville. Belleville lived up to its ratings with a 21-16 win over Memorial.

Belleville has the opportunity to win a state title this year. They are that good. All of us at Michigan Community Newspapers wish the team best of luck in their game with Monroe (also a highly rated team) and in the coming state playoffs.

It's always great to see local businesses giving back to their respective communities. The latest act of generosity is coming from the Romulus IGA.

The IGA store on Goddard Road is donating one percent of the total on collected register tapes to local organizations from Oct. 31 to April 30, 1995.

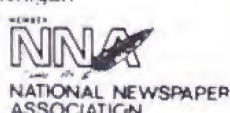

One percent in the grocery business can add up quickly. Romulus organizations that take advantage of this offer can earn thousands of dollars.

We say "thanks" to Dennis Swaney, store owner and the Romulus IGA.

Readers sound off on local issues, air gripes

Readers, this week, dialed Sound-off 729-4006 to gripe about uneven traffic lanes, the local hiring of ex-convicts and picketing during the governor's recent visit. Readers also sounded off to tell us that some residents approve of the deep well in Romulus.

Wayne County residents can continue to call the "community soap box" during the evening and night hours to register their gripes and comments. All messages will be published in a future edition.

Sound-off callers are requested to speak clearly and to refrain from swearing, slandering or slurring ethnic or racial groups. Callers need not identify themselves.

Call between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. throughout the week to have your message recorded. Here is a sampling of our readers' concerns:

I'm a Romulus resident. I think we should support the deep-injection well in Romulus. It's good for Romulus and will bring back a higher tax base. The facility is a $7 million facility.

Anybody who does not support the well should get their facts right because it is a very good thing for Romulus and perfectly safe.

I don't know why anybody does not support it. Once again the Roman should run an opinion article, and let the people express their opinions, since people really do support it.

Even though, RECAP, a group in Romulus doesn't support it, the people really do support it.

I think its a hot topic you should have in the newspaper. I Know Al Post has done a lot of research into the deep-injection well. Maybe he should talk to Doug Wicklund or whoever owns that EDS thing, and publish a statement in the newspaper that the well is good. You might want to do something to get the well in Romulus, since we're spending too much tax money on this thing (law suit) and the well is actually good.

Once more, I support the deep injection well. I have a $120,000 house and spend too much damn tax money on it.

money and deposit it into their own savings account, which is transferred into an account at the bank. The children have their own passbooks, ledger cards and deposit slips made just for them. The children learn what it's like to save money. Some of their parents don't have savings accounts, but the children are proud to have their very own. The bank supplies all the paper work and my children supply the money. This program is run by the parent volunteers at my Darn the lawsuit. Zoning should never be granted to Environmental Disposal Services, no matter what the legal costs. Romulus is no safer importing Canada's liquid hazardous waste than it would be importing Texas rattlesnakes.

In the city of Wayne, Gov. Engler was here and your paper covered it. Why wasn't it in the paper that the mayor of Wayne (Ken Warfield) and Councilman Tom Kelly were there, picketing the governor, despite the fact that they are merely figureheads under our city manager form of government?

The mayor was picketing the man we get things from and the head of our state. Both the mayor and Kelly are running for higher offices, and they're picketing the governor. How are they going to work with these people if they picket them?

They should be reprimanded by the city manager for their actions. The mayor can't take the mayoral hat off. He is always the mayor.

I'm a resident of Inkster and I have a gripe about the east-bound intersection of Michigan Avenue and Inkster Road, where the roads have been redone. The yellow line in the center of the road is uneven. And that intersection, I do believe, will cause an accident. The lines are uneven and there's going to be a head-on collision at that intersection, and I would appreciate if someone would do something about it.

I'm watching channel 17 right now, watching the local news part, and it said a Wayne man did malicious destruction, and said how it was all gang graffiti.

I'm one of the people who was supposed to have one of these warrant out for me. None of it was gang graffiti. I want you guys to get it straight. It was in the newspaper, then on TV.

I don't like my friends seeing that stuff. What am I supposed to do?

I understand that my house has it's problems just like the rest of the schools. Ours is no different. But I feel that the people thinking of selling me aren't really looking at me, they just see "$$$$$$", and location, or is it the children? Do they see my children? They should come and see the faces, they are always smiling and happy to see that I'm still there for them.

I'm not sure what the future holds for me. If you would like to visit I'll still be at 300 Henry Ruff, Westland, my name is:

Certainly people, even criminals, deserve a second chance in life, and I would support Technicolor's use of ex-convict labor, in Westland, if the company had the decency to hire reformed convicts instead of seedy reprobates. Unfortunately, they seem to prefer hiring habitual criminals who only want another a second chance at robbery, rape, murder, and whatever devilish thrills there twisted minds seek.

Because of their irresponsible hiring policies, Technicolor should forfeit its right to hire jailbirds and either hire straight and narrow workers, go out of business, or setup behind bars. Westland can no longer afford their desire for cheap labor.

What can the schools do about the theft of items from kids' lockers. One Belleville High School student lost an expensive jacket from his locker recently, and there have been others.

I think more thefts are occurring than have been reported.

Nostalgia Memories of 'good old days' sought

Comments about World War II shortages and rationing from three area residents were featured in the October edition of Michigan History Magazine, published by the state.

In an article by Carey Draeger, Park Gregory of Belleville told about filling the meatless gaps during the 1940s with muskrats, which were trapped along the Detroit River, and Westland resident Lorraine Evans remembered learning to drink her coffee black during the days of rationing stamps.

Former Wayne resident

Former Wayne resident Forrest Meek recalled working at a gas station across from Wayne High School.

Forrest Meek recalled working at a gas station across from Wayne High School and metering out rationed gasoline - three gallons at a time - to customers. He also noted that he patched old tires until they began to look "like Grandma's favorite quilt."

Knowing that there are many long-time residents in our six communities, Michigan Community Newspapers is launching a Nostalgia series featuring reminiscences from area men and women. Stories about the observance of Halloween, the celebration of Thanksgiving and Christmas as well as everyday events will be welcomed.

Individuals may submit memories of the "good old days," particularly events from the pre-World War II era, to Nostalgia Feature, Michigan Community Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Mich. 48184.

Getting in and out of a sport utility vehicle can be an adventure. That's why we created the all-new Jimmy from GMC Truck. One of the first things you'll notice is a lower step-in height. This was achieved without sacrificing ground clearance - an engineering breakthrough. Of course, Jimmy still comes with all the strength and reliability of a GMC truck. Like a boxed frame for improved riding comfort. Insta-Trac® 4WD. and as standard equipment, the Enhanced 4.3L 195 hp V6 engine - one of the most powerful in its class. Not to mention a remarkably quiet interior, and other sport utility firsts - like a choice of suspensions.

For safety, there's a standard driver's side air bag*, four-wheel antilock brakes, and steel reinforced side door beams. For more information call: 1-800-GMC TRUCK. Or better yet visit a GMC Truck dealer for a test drive.

Belleville puts on show at Wayne

'Must' game with Monroe

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

No one ever told Belleville coach Bob LaPointe it was going to be easy. He knows better.

After his Tigers dearly hung on to a 21-16 victory over arch-rival Wayne Memorial on a sunny Saturday afternoon made for football, LaPointe and his undefeated Tigers have none other than undefeated Monroe to face next.

And, although Belleville has climbed a notch or two in the Class AA state ratings (they're No. 2 over all; No. 1 in the West), which really translates into that they will all want a piece of you now, the Tigers have another must game on their schedule.

Monroe also happens to have the same aspirations that the Tigers do, that is, to capture the 1994 Mega Conference Red Division championship and qualify for the state playoffs.

And the 8 p.m. Friday night game between Belleville and Monroe at Belleville should be a telltale battle with the winners taking it all.

But back to Wayne where Belleville's Ian Gold and running back Chris Cannon put on a show. Cannon rushed for more than 80 yards and scored a key touchdown and Gold sparked in the 21-16 triumph that provided the visitors with an untarnished 7-0 record on the year. Wayne dipped to 5-2.

"We failed to get the job done in that first half," noted Wayne coach Chuck Howton. "Belleville has an excellent team and, when you commit four crucial turnovers against a team like that, you're going to pay."

And Wayne did. To survive for the playoffs, the Zebras need to beat on back-to-back weekend - Dearborn Fordson and natural rival, Westland John Glenn.

And that isn't going to be easy.

Belleville jumped on top 14-0 lead for the first two quarters and controlled the first half, but then had to fight a determined Wayne that came back in the second half and almost pulled it out.

Ian Gold got Belleville on the scoreboard midway in the opening period with a 21-yard sweep. And the Tigers had to settle for a 6-0 lead when Eric Harrison's kick was blocked.

In the second quarter, Cannon came up with a 17-yard TD run and the Tigers elected to go for two with Gold going across the goal line.

Early in the fourth period, the undefeated Tigers scored what was the last TD of the afternoon as Gold drove in for his second touchdown. Harrison's bid for the point-after found the mark.

Cannon finished with 82 yards on 12 tries, and Gold piled up 55 yards on 12 carries. Tiger running back Joe Manual added 29 yards on six chances and Nate Lewis contributed 13 yards.

Defensive tackles Brian Shephard and Zyers Ruff were at their best for Wayne and Justin Carey, along with Rashaad Atkins, also earned accolades on defense.

"I felt one of the key plays in this game was Cannon's interception which certainly stopped on of their threats," said LaPointe. "They certainly dominated us in that second half."

LaPointe sees the game with Monroe shaping up as a test for his defense.

"Monroe has an excellent running back in Jeff Goins," he said. "We must stop him. If we do, we stand a chance."

Wayne managed to turn their game around in the second half thanks to the efforts of linebacker Nick Nyshick and Tim Galinis. Scott Wetmore also had a good afternoon, picking off two passes from his cornerback spot.

Belleville running back Ian Gold (21) slices his way through the Wayne defense during their showdown game Saturday. Gold came up with two TDs that lifted the undefeated Tigers to their seventh straight victory and kept them in a first-place tie with Monroe. The two will decide which team will remain on top of the Mega Conference on Friday when the two play for the title. ANP photo by Scott Breithaupt

Glenn runs wild at Salem

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Junior tailback Brent Washington ran wild against Plymouth-Salem Friday night, rushing for an incredible 200 yards and scoring all three of the Rockets' touchdowns in an 18-7 Glenn victory over divisional rival, Plymouth Salem.

Washington scored on a pair of short three-yard runs and also tallied from the four in Glenn's fourth Western Lakes Conference triumph in five starts.

The victory, coupled with Livonia Stevenson's 7-0 shutout of Farmington, produced co-champions in the Lakes Division.

However, since Stevenson defeated Glenn in head-on combat, the Spartans, and not Glenn, qualified to play Farmington Hills Harrison for the overall conference championship.

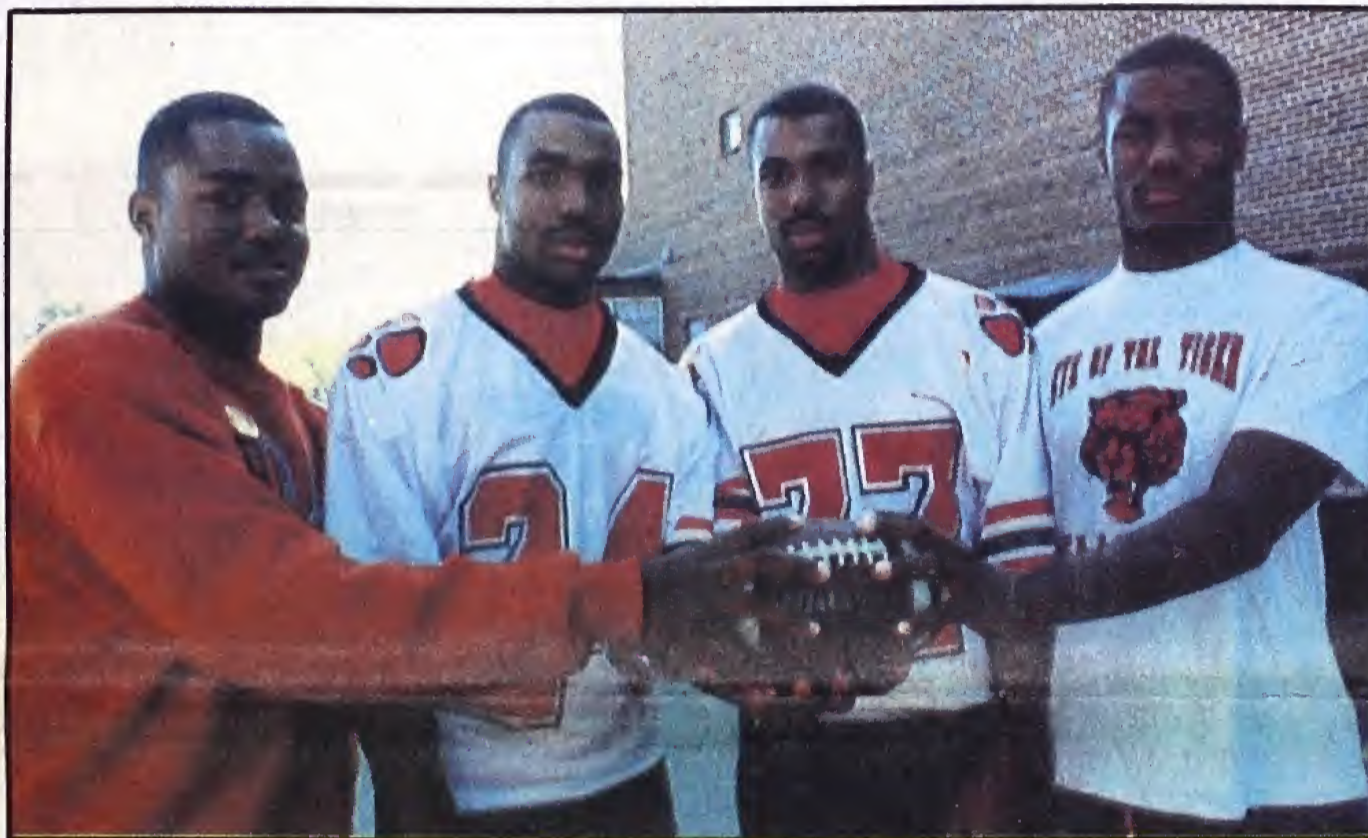

Stevenson will travel to Harrison at 1 p.m. Saturday to settle the title issue. In the meantime, Salem takes on Walled Lake Western for its crossover game.

Salem coach Tom Moshimer said that Western is better than its 2-5 record indicates.

"They can run and throw the ball well," the veteran Salem coach noted. "We got to shut down their passing game if we are to stay with them."

Salem could not stop Washington, who was called upon 37 times to carry the ball. The rugged running back managed to break through the Salem defenses with 59 seconds left in the initial quarter as he capped a midfield drive with his first of three TDs.

Some will argue that all that glitters isn't gold, but when it comes to Belleville football this year, the Gold brothers (pictured above, from left) - Corey, Jeremy, Jason and Ian - definitely have glittered all season on the Tiger gridiron. For the first time in over three decades, Belleville is in the hunt for a conference title and a Class AA state playoff berth. However, Friday night, they are in a showdown for the Mega Conference, Red Division, lead, taking on also undefeated Monroe. MCN photo by Ken Garner

All that glitters

Gold brothers provide sparkle in Belleville's first bid for title, playoff

By IVAN HELFMAN
MCN Staff Writer

While most high school football teams would be lucky to have one star player, the Belleville Tigers have been blessed with a star family -- the Gold brothers.

Thanks in part to Ian, 16, Jason and Jeremy, 17, the undefeated Tigers are ranked second in the state Class AA division. If that wasn't enough, Coach Bob LaPointe plans to bring Corey Gold, 14, up from the junior varsity squad to join the varsity during the post-season playoff games.

Brawny Corey Gold, who's already 6-feet, 1-inch and about 210 pounds, plays offensive tackle and defensive end. He holds the North Middle School record for throwing a shot-put 51.5 feet.

Dynamic Jason, who plays outside linebacker, uses his quickness and power to lead the team in tackles. He had 50 through game six.

Ian, a streamline tailback, ran for 589 yards, averaged an incredible 9.2 yards-per-carry, and had scored 10 touchdowns in six games.

"My strengths are speed, quickness and a little bit of power," he said. "I hit the hole, see open field, and go for it."

Ian is a two-sport champion. Running in the 4-by-1 and 4-by-2 100 yard relays, he helped the Tiger track team win league and regional championships.

Jeremy, who plays wingback on offense and strong safety on defense, missed part of the season with an injury to his broad shoulders. He returned against Garden City and caught three passes for 85 yards in the Tiger's 36-10 victory over the Cougars.

Not only do the Golds enjoy playing together but they play better together.

Field goal jolts Romulus, 3-0

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

It was a fierce battle of the defenses that Romulus coach James Zoltowski wanted to win for a couple of good reasons.

Milan is Zoltowski's "hometown" and he didn't want to lose to some of the coaches he had known for years.

It was also Romulus' homecoming. A victory would be a treat to those Eagles who remembered their alma mater.

It was also the last time the seniors would be playing before the hometown crowd.

And, of course, after stunning Pinckney, 15-14, a week before, a victory over Milan would give Romulus a modest two game winning streak.

Alas, it wasn't to be.

With nine seconds left in the game, Milan junior kicker Jeff Conley sealed Romulus' fate when he connected on a 25-yard field goal that gave the Big Reds a 3-0 victory and sent the homecoming fans home empty-handed.

But the siege the Romulus defense out upon Milan was relentless and will not be forgotten.

The Eagles, led by inside linebacker Tyrone Jones, who had 14 tackles, and Matt Ladick, who had 11, managed to keep the visitors in check until that last minute of the game.

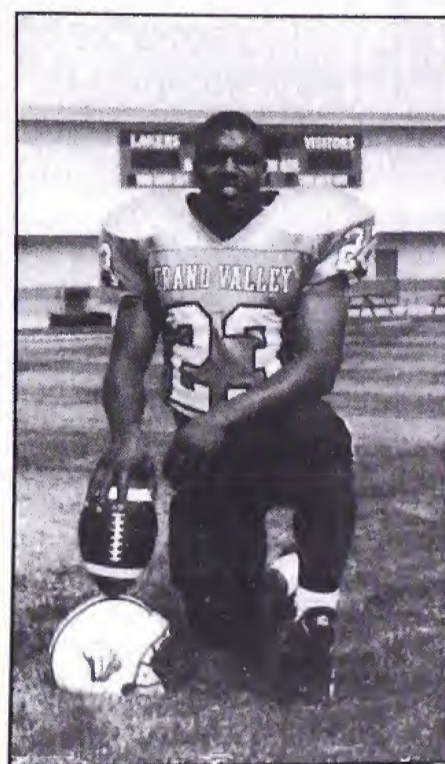

"It's a very, very tough game to lose," said Zoltowski. "We wanted this one badly. But our kids gave it all they had and I am proud of them."

Zoltowski received a superb game out of senior running back Eric Nunley, who rushed for 77 yards in 15 attempts. However, the Eagles' passing game was horrendous - of quarterback Jamal McCain's 25 attempts only five made it to their targets for 66 yards.

Three passes were also intercepted.

Against Pinckney last week, McCain saved the day with a 15-yard pass to senior split end Michael Bell who hauled in

Bruce Calhoun

Ex-Wayne grid star is injured

Former Wayne Memorial football star Bruce Calhoun has missed several games with a knee injury at Grand Valley State University.

Calhoun, a member of the elite All-Area teams in the 1990s, has rushed for 114 yards on 23 carries for the Lakers this season in the opening two games and was expected to share the ball-carrying duties until his injury.

Grand Valley, coached by Brian Kelly, is 3-2 overall this season and 3-1 in the conference.

If you know where the ball is in the above photo and play, you may have better eyes than the refs. When the pileup broke up for the evening, Westland John Glenn (white jerseys) claimed a victory over Salem and had a share of the Lakes title. ANP photo by Scott Breithaupt

Inkster could turn grim year to greatness

Vikings host rival Robichaud

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

A down-and-out Inkster could turn a grim football season into a great one with one stroke.

All that Viking coach Vic Calhoun and his minions have to do is to stop a title-bound, natural rival, Robichaud.

And the Viking homecoming crowd would love it.

But Robichaud coach Bob Yauck obviously has other plans, despite its latest win, a 8-0 triumph over Willow Run, which clinched at least a share of the 1994 Suburban Athletic Conference championship.

"We never take Inkster for granted in anything," Yauck said. "I don't care if we are 10-0 and they are 0-10, they always come ready to play for us. This is that traditional neighborhood rival, and you don't go looking at records at this time or you're bound to live top regret it."

Yauck will pack up his Bulldogs and head for Inkster on Friday with kickoff scheduled for 3:30 p.m.

In the meantime, Robichaud has stashed away its 10th SAC title thanks to a victory over a tough Willow Run club. Robichaud has won all five of its SAC games and is 6-1 on the season. It needs a win over the Vikings to stay in the chase for a Class B state playoff berth.

Staged at Eastern Michigan University, the Robichaud-Willow Run game failed to generate much fan enthusiasm, and that disappointed the Bulldogs and Yauck.

"It is good for the team to play in a college-stadium atmosphere, however, we're not getting the fans to come to EMU, and that's unfortunate, Yauck stressed.

After three scoreless quarters, Robichaud broke the deadlock in the first minute of the fourth quarter when quarterback Matt Alexander teamed up with Brett Kubitz on a 16-yard TD toss.

Alexander elected to go for the two-point conversion and swept into the end zone via an off-tackle play.

The senior QB scored after a 67-yard drive that included a 25-yarder for himself.

Late in the game, Alexander marched the Bulldogs inside the Flyers' 20, but a turnover dissipated the drive.

Tailback Steve Schumacker, who collected 45 yards on 11 carries, and Alexander, who had 58 yards on nine attempts, led the Robichaud assault on a tough Willow Run offense.

Robichaud's outstanding linebacking corps, made up of Schumacker, Brian Gibson and Brian

Wojtowicz sets John Glenn cross country course record

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Although the team finished near the middle of the pile, Westland John Glenn super sophomore, Joe Wojtowicz, captured a gold medal in a course-record setting time at the annual Glenn Invitational staged last week.

Wojtowicz toured the Rocket course in 17:04, clipping the previous mark by one second to lead the pack. He edged Dearborn Edsel Ford harrier Matt Muskan, who was awarded the silver for his 17:05.

Wojtowicz led the field until the final lap when the Edsel runner pulled up and away from him. However, the Rocket turned on the jet fuel and sped past his rival and to an impressive victory.

However, Glenn finished eighth in a field of nine teams as Redford Catholic Central captured the first-place trophy thanks to a 38-point total. Ypsilanti was second with 68, followed by Edsel Ford (75), Dearborn (116), Ann Arbor Huron (145), Glenn (151), Northville (154), Belleville (205) and Garden City (No team totals recorded).

Glenn coach Jess Shough said the invitation, for freshmen and sophomores only, was a "success".

"We had a perfect day and some outstanding times, including the recorder-breaker by Wojtowicz."

Glenn also counted the scores of medalist Keith Clements, who was 22nd (19:02); Tim Moore, 35th (20:36); Tom Stoner, 49th (23:26) and Eric Molitor, 53rd (27:54).

Over in the women's division, Edsel Ford earned the championship as the T-Birds piled up a 26-59 victory over their closest rival, Belleville, which came away with the second-place trophy. Ann Arbor Huron finished third with 92, followed by Ypsilanti, Dearborn, Northville, and Glenn.

Edsel's Andrea Mulkern was the first to cross the finish line. She was clocked in 19:56, while Belleville's Tammy Pietrowski finished with the silver (20:08) and Tara Shamey, also of Edsel, was third with 20:45.

Belleville coach Sam Vicchy said he felt his team ran a good race.

The Tigers also received a sixth-place finish from Jamie Koren (21:20), while the Akron sisters - Milissa (14th, 22:27) and Katie (17th - 22:52) also earned medals. Michelle King was 20th (23:17).

Belleville's other runners: Nicole Gradie, 21st - 24:01; Lisa Jones, 26th - 24:58; and Keri Saksewski, 31st - 26:28 also contributed to the Tiger success.

On Thursday, led by Pietrowski's first place run, Belleville turned back Mega Red Conference rival, Redford Union, 19-42. Pietrowski had the winning time of 20:44.

The Tigers also finished third, fourth and fifth with Koren, Milissa and Katie Akron.

Glenn evened up its division (2-2) and overall (3-3) records at the expense of Plymouth-Salem, 24-32, last week as Wojtowicz was awarded first place after two Salem runners were disqualified for cutting the Glenn course. Molitor was third for the Rockets (17:40) and Henry Honeycutt was fourth (18:27) while Chris Gillen finished fifth (18:32). The Rockets also received a fifth-place finish from Todd Peterson (19:19).

The Western Lakes Conference will decide the conference championships on Saturday at 4 p.m. at Cass Benton Park.

Wayne dunks Lincoln Park en route to 7th swim victory

By TOM MOORADIAN
MCN Staff Writer

Wayne Memorial remained in the hunt for a Mega Conference White Division swim championship last week with an impressive 122-48 victory over Lincoln Park. It was Wayne's fifth divisional victory in six starts and its seventh in nine outings this year.

Coach Greg Cooper's swimmers swept 10 out of a possible 11 events from the Parkers, who managed to capture only the diving event.

Wayne launched its bid for the team victory with a 2:25.5 effort in the 200-yard medley relay as Christi Brumlow, Katie Pardee, Erin West and Melissa Becker teamed up for the win.

Then, in the 200-yard freestyle, Andrea McCahill was clocked with the winning time of 2:25.98, while teammate Teresa Yorke turned in a 2:52.5 to win the 200-yard individual medley. West came back to win the 100-yard butterfly (1:25.77) and Becker was the best of the 100-yard freestyle field, churning a 1:10.5 for the victory.

Wayne also captured the 500-yard freestyle thanks to the performance of Jenny Bailey, who touched the wall in 6:43.8.

Cooper put together a lineup of Yorke, Becker, April Feijoo and McCahill, who teamed up for a 2:10.13.

Brumlow also won the 100-yard backstroke as she led the pack to the wall with a 1:16.88 and Pardee was the first to check in for the 100-yard breaststroke (1:28.48).

In the 400-yard freestyle relay, it was McCahill, Pam Prpick, Feijoo and Joselyn Nemeth who won it in 4:47.94.

Wayne however couldn't match the overall strength of Trenton and fell to their conference rivals, 107-89. The Zebras managed to salvage only two first places with Brumlow winning the backstroke event (1:12.86) and the foursome of McCahill, Prich, Teresa Yorke and Becker claiming the 400-freestyle relay in 4:22.95.

Wayne will return to the pool today at Southgate where they take on Anderson.

ment each other," said Jason. "We're competitive and go full tilt against each other in practice. It increases the intensity."

"We go after each other during hitting drills," said Jeremy. Corey said that the brothers have been playing sports together since their stickball days, and that sports have always been integral to their relationship.

"We'll always remember winning together," Ian said.

The Golds' on-field heroics is one of the reasons football fever is rampaging through Belleville High's halls and classrooms. Students proudly wear spirit ribbons cheering on the Tigers.

"Every week have a new spirit ribbon for every team we play," said Ian. "Ribbons saying 'Trap the (Wyandotte) Bears,' 'Cook the (Garden City) Cougars,' and 'Womp the (Woodhaven) Warriors.'" Sales of Tiger streamers and pom-poms are generating funds for student groups.

"I never imagined home much support there'd be," said Jeremy. "The pep rallies and cheerleaders and everything."

"It's incredible," said Jason. "They're celebrating and we haven't won the league yet."

"Credit for the Golds' success goes to their mother and Coach LaPointe."

"Mom is our number one fan and the number one person in our life," said Ian. "She raised us the last 14 years and she gets credit for keeping us in church, making us do our homework after practice, and keeping our heads small." Mrs. Gold taught the boys to work hard, Jeremy said. As a result, the boys practice football from 2:40 to 6 p.m., four days a week, and play games Friday night.

"We're dead tired and still have to do our school work," Ian said. "So we rest an hour and then Mom makes us do two hours a night of school work."

"Corey still has time to play the saxophone. Too busy with football, Ian gave up the trumpet and singing. Their mother, Celia Gold, a middle school English teacher in the Wayne-Westland School District, stressed education and it shows in the boys scholastic achievements. Corey, Ian, and Jason have 3.1 averages. Jeremy has a 2.8.

"We don't get any slack from the teachers," said Ian.

Laura Druker, who has taught physics to all but Corey, rates them good students.

Jeremy and Jason are college bound. They're being recruited by Michigan State, Indiana, Bowling Green, Ohio, Toledo, Eastern Michigan, and Iowa. Jeremy plans to major in education; Jason in computer engineering.

Brian Kolb's boot failed to find the uprights, leaving the Rockets with a precarious 6-0 advantage.

The two teams turned to their defenses, and it wasn't until the third quarter that the Rockets struck again. This time Washington's TD was set up by a fumble recovery of Jason Crosby's excellent punt which carried 46 yards and slipped from the receiver's fingers into Eric Davey's hands at the Salem nine-yard line.

Washington scored from the three, and quarterback James Hagelthorn elected to go for the two-pointer and missed his target.

Early in the fourth, Washington scored his third touchdown of the game when plowed through the Rocks from the four, polishing off a 55-yard drive.

Salem avoided the shutout thanks to Jeremy Eaton and Tom Bish. Eaton blocked a Rocket punt late in the fourth that wound up in Bish's arms. He just backpedaled 10-yards into the end zone for the touchdown.

Mike Kley kicked the extra point.

Salem tailback Mike Brannan accounted for 58 of the Rocks' 97 yards rushing. He had 12 attempts on the evening.

Hagelthorn connected on four of his 10 passes for 50 yards and linebackers Matt Griglio, who had one interception, and Mike Sosnowski, stood out for the Rocket defense.

WHEATLEY WATCH

With 144 rushing yards and a 67-yard touchdown, one of two scored by Inks-ter native Tyrone Wheatley against Penn State on Saturday, Wheatley has now rushed for over 100 yards in 17 of his 22 career starts for the University of Michigan Wolverines.

Unfortunately, Wheatley's superb performance was wasted as Penn State emerged from the battle of the Big 10 powers with a 31-24 victory.

With his two touchdowns against Penn State - the second was a 21-yarder - the Heisman Trophy and Doak Walker Award candidate increased his "M" record for total touchdowns to 48 and his rushing TD mark to 42.

Incidentally, Wheatley's 67-yard touchdown run against Penn State was the longest Michigan rushing touchdown since Wheatley scored on an 88-yard rush in a 38-31 victory over Washington in the 1993 Rose Bowl.

By the way, Wheatley now needs only 20 more points to break Mike Gill-ette's Michigan career scoring record of 307 points, set during the 1985-88 campaigns.

Glenn graduate dazzles audiences with special movie effects

By MARGO DEWEY
News Editor

My momma always said that life is like a box of chocolate. You never know what you're goin' get.

Those lines from the hit movie Forrest Gump are now famous after being heard throughout the U.S. last summer. What also captured the attention of the audience, however, was the many special effect scenes which included actor Tom Hanks, portraying Forrest, running at lighting speed to get away from his so-called enemies.

The effects have been applauded by many critics, and the outstanding results can be attributed to no other than Doug Chiang, a John Glenn High School and William D. Ford Vocational Technical Center graduate.

Chiang, who works for George Lucas' Industrial Light and Magic in California, was one of the technical artists that worked on Forrest Gump and another hit flick this year Mask.

Chiang, who is only in his young 30s, achieved an Academy Award last year for his expert special effect work in the outrageous comedy Death Becomes Her.

He said it took nearly 11 months to complete his end of the work in Forrest.

"We had to alter the dialogue, and we wanted to make the movie seamless, especially the running aspect," Chiang said. "Our goal was to make all the effects believable. We had to be very careful not to push it over the top because audiences today are very aware now on how special effects are done."

Chiang said he enjoys taking an idea and stretching it as far as he can. That method can be related to his brief but effective work in Mask.

"Mask was a slightly different film," Chiang said. "The work was done early on. I came up with a few wild and crazy designs and then another technical team took it from there because I had so much left to do on Forrest. The two movies were in the works at the same time."

and the truest love a woman could ever know.

Mask stars Jim Carrey who knows how to turn a city upside down. Carrey finds a mask that gives him special powers beyond his control whenever he puts it on.

The mask, however gets Carrey into all kinds of trouble with the mob, police and women. The special effects in this flick are outstanding.

Chiang's work has been seen in other Hollywood films including Ghost and Terminator II. He said Forrest Gump was probably one of the most difficult films to put together.

"Just to get everything perfect took awhile," Chiang said. "But, once you get it right, you know the audience will appreciate it even more."

Chiang is already working on his next flick, Jumanji, which is based on the children's book where two children start playing a game and realize things in real life begin to happen as they are playing the game.

"They have to finish the game in order to end what they started," Chiang said.

Besides working on films this year, Chiang also recently got married. He finally took a well-deserved honeymoon in Bora Bora.

What's in store for this very talented special effects producer in the near future?

"I would like to produce and direct my own film one day," Chiang said.

Taxpayer 'burned'

Community waste incinerator may be on death spiral

By IVAN HELFMAN
MCN Staff Writer

Inkster, Wayne, and Westland may be courting financial disaster by bucking the national trend and burning their garbage in a proposed waste-to-energy plant.

Across the United States, the fairy tale dreams of incinerator promoters are going up in smoke for lack of trash to burn, according to the Wall Street Journal.

These communities, infected by "waste-to-energy" fever, are "trapped in a death spiral," and their taxpayers are getting burned, the Journal continued.

The reason? Incinerators were not designed to be economic; they were designed to replace dumps, a disappearing asset that didn't disappear, according to Douglas Augenthaler, a trash stock analyst at Oppenheimer & Co. in New York, and to Dennis Piper, a local writer on environmental topics.

Will the same problems sink the waste-to-energy plant proposed by the Central Wayne County Sanitation Authority to handle garbage for Inkster, Wayne, Westland, Garden City, and Dearborn Heights?

And what about health concerns?

"The waste-to-energy plant should not go in," said Dr. Robert M. Soderstrom, spokesman for the Michigan State Medical Society. In 1993, the society passed a resolution calling for the phase out of incineration in the entire Great Lakes basin because the plant emissions of dioxin and PCBs (polychlorinated biphenyl).

Soderstrom said that dioxin and PCBs are both cumulative toxins that are too prevalent in Great Lakes fish.

Further, the International Joint Commission's Sixth Biennial Report on Great Lakes Water Quality, a group appointed by the U.S. president and the Canadian prime minister, recommended, in 1992, that "incineration facilities in the region be phased out of use or required to eliminate the production and emission of dioxin, furan, PCBs and inorganic materials, especially mercury and hydrochloric acid..." Implementation of this recommendation could mothball the incinerator.

These and other questions were put to Erik Schaeffer, director of the Authority, and other local officials who have recently authorized Schaeffer to negotiate with Central Wayne Energy Recovery Partnership, a subsidiary of Baltimore Gas and Electric, to upgrade, own, and operate the plant.

Schaeffer strongly disagrees, asserting that economics and environmental safety favor the proposed incinerator.

Schaeffer had informed the member communities that the choice was between negotiating to upgrade the incinerator to a mass burn waste-to-energy plant or closing it down and disposing of the communities waste in a dedicated landfill cell.

Use of a dedicated cell, which would only accept trash from the Authority, adds $7 per-ton to estimates of the disposal costs, or $742,000 per year (calculated by multiplying $7 per-ton cost by the 106,000 tons-per-year to be burned). By not considering this alternative, Authority members were persuaded to choose between an incinerator and a dedicated landfill, which will have similar disposal costs, according to Schaeffer's estimates.

"There are tremendous public funds invested in the incinerator over 30 years," said Wayne Mayor Ken Warfield. "We can't just walk away if the decision is close."

But why rule out landfills, which would save taxpayers $742,000 at today's prices?

"The advantage of a dedicated cell is that if anything goes wrong with the landfill, we will be able to identify the pollution source. In a dedicated cell, the Authority would have a separate monitoring system so the Authority could pinpoint its own leachate for testing purposes."

- Erik Schaeffer

Schaeffer answered: "The advantage of a dedicated cell is that if anything goes wrong with the landfill, we will be able to identify the pollution source. In a dedicated cell, the Authority would have a separate monitoring system so the Authority could pinpoint its own leachate for testing purposes."

Schaeffer said that potential liability from pollution lawsuits would be reduced by isolating the Authority's trash and maintaining separate test records for it.

"The extra $7 per-ton difference is worth it because landfill cleanups aren't cheap," he said. "They can range anywhere from $5 to $50 million."

Schaeffer also pointed out the counter-argument, that "nondedicated landfills have money set aside to cover liability."

Schaeffer's reasoning was challenged by Oakland County Commissioner Sue Douglas, a leading player in Oakland's rejection of a waste-to-energy plant in favor of mainstream landfills.

"I never heard of a community choosing a dedicated landfill," she said, adding that it would raise the Authority's risks in two ways. First, by taking it out of a very large risk pool. She said that under US Superfund law, potential liability can be spread very far. "It's up to the courts."

Or, as the WSJ put it: "...drag-nets have been spawned by the far-reaching liability clauses of the Superfund law. Designed to clean up the nation's worst toxic trouble spots, the statute empowers the Environmental Protection Agency and designated state agencies to identify 'potentially responsible parties' and force them to pay remediation costs, regardless of when and what they dumped at a site and even if they simply once owned the property."

Second, Douglas said that liability is not reduced by controlling where you landfill your waste as it is by how you sort your waste. For example, she said that the city of Rochester controls its waste by mandating curb-side recycling and by spending $40,000 for a mobile hazardous waste pickup system. Paints, pesticides, and solvents are picked up. The Authority did not include this safety measure in plans for its dedicated cell, though Schaeffer said it is being negotiated with the Partnership for the incinerator upgrade.

Douglas said that dumping unsorted trash into a dedicated landfill cell appears to increase liability and risk.

If she is right, Authority member communities acted on poor information.

However, incineration could pay for itself if the $7 per-ton landfilling advantage disappears. Schaeffer's cost projections, which the Authority members accepted, expects the trend toward lower landfill prices to reverse itself. However, when asked to provide back-up data to support the projections, he admitted that the future was not certain.

Other economic factors favor the incinerator, Schaeffer said. First, the Authority will get back $800,000 at the contract signing to offset development costs, with about $400,000 to be split by the members as a signing premium.

Second, $300,000 of taxes collected from the plant will be split by Inkster, Wayne, Westland, and Garden City, although this figure will be reduced yearly.

Third, after 27 years, about $12.5 million will become available to the member communities from the Detroit Edison, the electric power purchaser, escrow fund. The fund was established to guarantee power generation, since the success rate of waste-to-energy plants is not impressive.

Western Wayne police departments slow in hiring females, African-Americans

By IVAN HELFMAN
MCN Staff Writer

Despite elaborate measures imposed on police departments to insure equal employment opportunities, local hiring of African-Americans and females is progressing slowly.

An informal survey shows that Wayne, with a black population of 1,531 (7.7 percent), and Canton Township, with a black population of 1,167 (2 percent), have no African-American officers; Westland, with a black population of 2,817 (3.3 percent), has one, and Romulus, with a black population of 4,934 (21.6 percent), has two.

In contrast, Sumpter Township, with a black population of 1,487 (13.7 percent), has a black police chief and a female sergeant, who is second in command.

Hiring of women has progressed slightly faster. Wayne has one female officer, Romulus has five, Canton has three, Westland has 12, Romulus has five, and Sumpter Township has two.

The inequality of outcome in hiring of African-Americans baffles the chiefs and personnel directors.

"I don't know how we could be more aggressive," said Canton Personnel Director Dave Medley. "We have a pretty good affirmative action plan and have never had negative feedback from the Economic Opportunity Commission."

The EOC investigates complaints about hiring discrimination and monitors hiring procedures, applications, and outcomes.

Wayne, yet to hire an African-American officer, has not received EOC criticism.

"The EOC has reviewed us in the past and we have passed with flying colors," said Wayne Personnel Director Robert English.

All the communities contacted for this article follow EOC hiring guidelines, post positions in minority newspapers, such as the Michigan Chronicle, and use written tests created by the Michigan Municipal League to eliminate bias.

Wayne, for example, removes the names from its written tests, replacing them with numbers, to insure that no partiality enters the grading process, English said. Outsiders, with no connections to Wayne, are brought in to administer and evaluate oral exams.

The results are taken to the Wayne Eligibility Board, which consists of two men and one woman. One member is appointed by the City Council, another is elected by the employees, and the third is selected by the other two members. The board reviews the test results and sends a list containing the names of the three top performing applicants to the police chief, who hires from the list.

Westland hiring is all done by the three-member Civil Service Commission, following the requirements spelled out by State Act 78, according to Don Reddy, Westland Deputy Police Chief.

"The police department only does the background checks," Reddy said. "The Commission sets up the interviews and establishes the hiring list."

"At the present time, we are testing 80 people, and we have no way of knowing who's black or white, male or female. We just take them as they come."

Besides unbiased testing, the communities must report their outcomes to the EOC. Canton Personnel Director Dave Medley said that he is required to file EOC forms that include information about applications and hiring by position, salary, gender, and race.

"There's a lot of paperwork, and I don't see the necessity of logging the reports since we have a pretty good affirmative action plan," Medley said.

Canton has never received negative feedback from the EOC. However, the Township has had to fend off "nuisance" complaints, which entail paying an attorney to respond, Medley said.

Gayle Cober, EOC enforcement manager, had no comment.

Unsure why there are no African-American officers on the Wayne force, Police Chief John Colligan speculated that low wages, relative to nearby communities, might be to blame.

"It takes five years to reach maximum salary here," he said.

However, Sumpter Township Sgt. Wanda Elden, said it is easy to hire minorities and females.

All the communities praised the benefits of hiring women and African-Americans.

"A female officer can do everything a male can," said Bob Brown, Romulus police chief. "I have no hesitation to use females. One big advantage is that a female officer will try as hard as she can to calm someone down by talking and reasoning. A macho male is quicker to resort to more forceful actions."

Having successfully integrated two African-American officers, he said he would like more. "In my opinion, the more that you have in department, the better you are. We're starting to reflect a more accurate picture of community."

Sgt. Elden praised female officers, saying, "They don't have problems with road patrol because they are very diplomatic with the public. They also seem to encounter less resistance from the general public, especially from the men, some of whom are chivalrous."

Accompanying the desire to integrate, there is also an emphasis on culture diversity, according to Colligan. "The police academies emphasize cultural diversity," he said. "So we sent the whole department back, including the chief and assistant chief."

"Police officers have to be attuned to cultural differences, now that police work has become so complex and diversified. It's not just a guy with gun and badge anymore."

The failure of Wayne to hire African-American officers and more women has been criticized by Jim Netter, an NAACP member, who speculates that hiring biases persist. He said that the lack of African-Americans hampers the ability of the city to obtain federal grants, and that the lack of female officers restricts body searches of females and limits the comfort available to female rape victims.

In response, Colligan and English said that Wayne is receiving federal grants. Colligan said that the department has trained other female employees to conduct body searches.

Wayne man faces jury trial in assault

By MARGO DEWEY

An April 3, 1995 jury trial has been scheduled for a Wayne man charged with first-degree criminal sexual conduct before Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court Judge Margie Braxton.

Frederick Milliner, 18, is accused of sexually assaulting a 12-year-old at a home in Wayne July 11.

According to Wayne police Sgt. Bob McIntyre, the incident was allegedly consensual between the youngster and the defendant.

McIntyre said the court, however, doesn't see the act as consensual when you are dealing with a minor

Q.

Could I save money by selling my home through a "Flat Fee" real estate company rather than a Realtor charging a percentage commission?

A.

Perhaps - depending on how involved you want to be in the selling process. A few firms charge a fee for providing necessary forms, a "for sale" sign, and performing the closing function; you do the selling. Higher fees add to the service level - advertising, Multiple Listing Service and buyer qualifying may be available. Fees range from several hundred to several thousand dollars. A full-service Realtor includes all the marketing methods and programs in their basic commission rate.

Q.

My husband beats me. He said if I leave he'll take the kids. What can I do to guarantee when I file for divorce being that I have not filed any police reports?

A.

There is no way to guarantee the issue of custody. If you choose to leave your husband and take your children with you, without any court orders giving you physical custody, then you and your husband have equal rights to the children. Quite simply, he could take over physical custody forcefully from you. In order to avoid this event you should consult your attorney and investigate the feasibility of filing for divorce and obtaining an Ex-Parte Order for custody and support; this order grants you physical custody of your children and orders your husband to pay child support.

Q.

I've been hearing a lot about Living Wills. What are they and are they a good idea?

A.

Having a Living Will is a growing trend in the United States and Canada. A Living Will is simply a legal document which enables you to maintain control over whether your life should be prolonged by certain medical procedures. In effect, you are giving specific instructions regarding your wishes if you are unable to speak for yourself. Many people feel it is a good idea to express these wishes beforehand so that family and friends are relieved of the stress of making these decisions for you. To make out a Living Will is a big decision. You should definitely include those close to you in the process.

Nostalgia

Memories of area residents sought

In a recent edition of Michigan History Magazine, published by the state, three area residents were featured with their comments on coping with rationing and shortages during World War II.

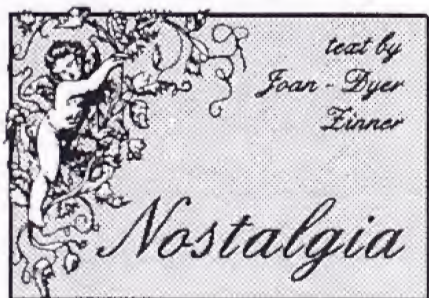

In an article by Carey Draeger, Belleville resident Park Gregory told about filling the meatless gaps during the rationing and shortages with muskrats, which were trapped along the Detroit River.

Former Wayne resident Forrest Meek recalled working at a gas station across from Wayne High School and metering out rationed gasoline - three gallons at a time - to customers.

Among her reminiscences, Lorraine Evans of Westland said she learned to drink her coffee black during the rationing period.

Knowing that there are many long-time residents in our six communities, Michigan Community Newspapers is launching a Nostalgia series featuring reminiscences from area men and women. Stories about the observance of Halloween, the celebration of Thanksgiving and Christmas as well as everyday events will be welcomed.

Individuals may submit memories of the "good old days," particularly events from the pre-World War II era, to

Sentencing scheduled in neighborhood assault

A Jan. 11 sentencing has been set for a Wayne man charged with felonious assault before Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Court Judge Harvey Tennen.

Allen John Serrin, 50, allegedly pointed a shotgun at his neighbor. The incident resulted allegedly because Serrin was upset that the neighbor's grandchild, who was playing ball on Sept. 10, had lost the ball and it rolled onto Serrin's property.

"The defendant and the neighbor have backyards that are adjoining," said Wayne police Lt. Mel Drews. "When the ball rolled onto the defendant's lawn, he got upset and started shouting obscenities to the child."

Drews said the grandfather came out of the house and allegedly told the neighbor if he had a problem with the child he should talk to him and not the child in such a harsh manner.

The neighbor went inside his house and then brought out a shotgun and allegedly pointed it at the grandfather.

Police were called in to handle the incident. No injuries occurred.

Exam set in ethnic dispute

Three Westland men charged with felonious assault and ethnic intimidation will appear for a final conference Nov. 4 before Detroit Wayne County Recorder's Leonard Townsend.

Eric Bolek, Michael Jablonski and Aaron Croo allegedly chased a Wayne man with a bat Aug. 1 on Michigan Avenue at Sophia Street in Wayne. The three defendants are white, and the victim is black.

"The altercation took place in front of an apartment building on Michigan Avenue," said Wayne police Sgt. Bob McIntyre. "The three defendants chased the victim and shouted racial comments."

The Westland residents were arraigned Aug. 31 in Recorder's Court.

Wine-making ritual

Old country tradition carried on in Canton

By GRETCHEN MADICK
MCN Special Writer

"Bubble, bubble, toil and trouble" describes the scene in the garage of Frank and Paula DeLuca of Canton Township. Six 45-gallon containers, called primary fermenters, hold a ground up mixture of stems, seeds, shoots and red California grapes - a deep, lush purple-cranberry color that bubbles as it ferments.

A family endeavor, brought from Italy when the family came to America, is still carried on by the DeLuca family who are passing their wine-making secrets on to the next generation.

Carefully tended by the DeLuca family, who reside on Forest Trails, the ground-up grapes spend five days concealed like trash, while blanketed under quilted cover-ups that movers use to protect them from the cold.

Watched and stirred twice a day by the DeLuca family, the grape mixture - with the help of a heater - maintains a temperature of 65 to 75 degrees.

Thirty glass jugs of assorted sizes - three, five and seven gallon containers - frame the sidewalk awaiting the strained, aromatic mixture that will become wine in three months.

A 75-year-old press will squeeze out juice from 10 cases of grapes at the same time as Grandpa DeLuca supervises his daughter, son, grandson and other family members in a ritual he began in Italy with his father and grandfather when he was 8.

Sixth years ago in Italy, the grapes were grown on the family estate. White and red grapes were blended and cranked, and then stepped on to crush and blend. Then, the grapes were pure of chemical additives. Now, DeLuca will only buy purple grapes from California.

For six hours on Saturday, a grinder which is 50 or 60 years old started the process as $1,000 purchased 50 cases of grapes from the United Produce Terminal on Fort Street in Detroit. Some 125 gallons of wine will be divided between family members and their friends.

In the old days, men made and drank the wine, followed by a card game, while the women cooked in the kitchen. Liberation finds women straining and pouring right along side the men.

Frank DeLuca's maternal grandfather passed on the press to the younger members of his family. Great-grandpa Bossio drank the wine until he was the ripe old age of 103.

DeLuca uses a hydrometer to measure the proof.

"You don't want anything stronger because it won't taste good," Frank said.

"Regular wine is 10 or 12 percent alcohol," said Frank's sister, Irene Prus. "Pure Italian wine, without the additives mixed in by commercial wine makers has a better flavor."

A recycler at heart, Frank's wife, Paula, has a secret ingredient making her flowers the envy of the neighborhood. With the juice eliminated, the pulp makes its way to her flower beds so nothing goes to waste.

What do they get out of it? "Longevity and a good time," Prus confessed.

Their grandfather, Vincenzo, started his day with a shot in the morning and one for breakfast. Every day he drank two glasses of wine and lived to be 99, she said.

"From trash to treasure, from earth to pleasure," could be the DeLuca family's toast when the wine is ready and they lift their glasses in celebration.

Witching hour

Greenfield Village players present vintage mystery production

By JOAN DYER-ZINNER
MCN Managing Editor

There's a touch of "new age" in the 1907 mystery, The Witching Hour, the opening production of the Greenfield Village Theatre Company series.

The Augustus Thomas play was the first production to use telepathy and hypnosis in its story line - a dramatic departure from other plays staged for turn-of-the-century audiences. When the play opened in New York City in 1907, it was hailed as "the most interesting drama in years - perhaps the century."

The drama remains timely - especially when it makes references as to how publicity and public opinion affect the outcome of a trial. One could almost hear the audience whisper "OJ."

The play centers around professional gambler Jack Brookfield, played by Kim Fox, who is introduced to mental telepathy and hypnosis by Supreme Court Justice Prentice, played by producer Joseph French.

Because of his unsavory occupation Brookfield was rejected by Helen Whipple (Maureen Dorrington) years before. Now widowed, Helen seek help for her son, Clayton (Kristopher Walby) who is being tried for murder, and Brookfield - using his newly found talents - is able to come to the rescue. Of course, there is Brookfield's pretty niece, Viola (Kate Peckham) who is in love with Clayton who also influences his decision to become involved in the case.

Belleville actor Joseph Haynes, who has appeared in numerous Village productions, played newspaper writer Ned Emmett - slightly unkept and a bit crude, characteristics usually attributed to newspaper writers of that era. He is slated to play an offbeat role in the holiday offering, Hansel and Gretel. The only clue I'll provide is that he is not one of the title characters.

There's not too much mystery in The Witching Hour, but the acting, costumes and scenery were all well done. Even though the audience seemed to have the ending wrapped up early in the production, the play continued to hold our interest.

In the 1994-95 series will be The Voice of the Turtle, Feb. 3 to March 11, 1995, The First Year, March 24 to April 29, The Fantasticks, May 19 to June 24, and Sherlock Holmes, Sept. 8 through Oct. 14.

Ticket information on the play or dinner theater program is available by calling 271-1620.

Joseph Haynes (above) of Belleville relaxes at the chess board following the last scene of the play. Joseph French, still in costume, provides a backstage tour of the renovations and new theater facilities. MCN photo by Joan Dyer-Zinner
